WHAT'S NEW IN THE NOVEMBER 2026 EDITION

New features and recent developments in this November 2026 Edition include:

- New case law on types of data that may be considered content information and what constitutes an interception (Ch. 3).
- Discussion of the landmark Supreme Court case of Chatrie v. U.S. and its implications for the collection of location information (Ch. 4).
- Discussion of the Fourth Amendment's particularity requirement in relation to warrants for information stored in cloud-based computing systems (Ch 4).
- Expanded discussion of the consent exception to interceptions under Title III, including the application of the carveout for criminal and tortious purpose with respect to entities that share personally identifiable customer data (Ch. 8).
- Discussion and updated statutory coverage of the sunsetting of FISA procedures for U.S.-based surveillance targeting persons outside the United States (Ch. 9, Appendix D).