

Preface

The 2025–2026 edition of DOMKE ON COMMERCIAL ARBITRATION THIRD EDITION reflects developments and changes in commercial arbitration resulting from legislative, judicial action, and administering agency action.

The 2025–2026 edition includes the following:

- Revisions of Chapter 11 (Effect of Invalidity), Chapter 13 (Effect of Arbitration Agreement on Nonsignatories), Chapter 18 (The Demand for Arbitration), Chapter 23 (Challenges to Enforcement of Arbitration Agreements), Chapter 39 (Scope and Standard of Judicial Review of Challenged Awards), Chapter 40 (Vacation, Modification, and Clarification of Awards), Chapter 47 (Remuneration of Arbitrators) and Chapter 48 (Other Costs of the Arbitration)
- Updated American Arbitration Association rules (Appendix F), updated maritime arbitration rules (Appendix J)
- Recent judicial decisions

The recognition and support of commercial arbitration by the courts, legislatures, international bodies, and the business community demonstrate the continued importance and ever-growing vitality of the concept that private resolution of disputes among business interests fosters both successful commercial relationships and peaceful interaction among the citizens of the world engaged in and affected by commerce.

Thanks to all who have contributed to this undertaking by sharing their expertise and granting permission to reprint important material, including representatives of the American Arbitration Association, International Chamber of Commerce, London Court of International Arbitration, National Conference of Commissioners on Uniform State Laws, and Society of Maritime Arbitrators.

This comprehensive treatise owes much to the contributions of Martin Domke, Gabriel Wilner, and Larry E. Edmonson. Special thanks are also due the skilled editor of this treatise, Hilary A. Shroyer.
