CHAPTER 6. OPERATING DISTRIBUTIONS—TAX DISTRIBUTION PROVISIONS

I. BACKGROUND OF TAX DISTRIBUTION PROVISIONS

- § 6:1 Many advisors favor the tax distribution provision as an important part of a partnership agreement
- § 6:2 Some advisors believe that a partnership agreement should not contain a tax distribution provision
- § 6:3 A tax distribution provision is not appropriate for all partnership agreements
- § 6:4 No single tax distribution provision is “perfect” for all partnership agreements; the tax distribution provision needs to reflect the needs of the specific transaction
- § 6:5 The drafter should create a tax distribution provision that works for the specific transaction
- § 6:6 The respective roles of lawyers and accountants

II. GENERAL CONSIDERATIONS IN DRAFTING A TAX DISTRIBUTION PROVISION

- § 6:7 The tax distribution provision addresses a disconnect between cash distributions and corresponding taxable income
- § 6:8 The partnership agreement should identify clearly whether the tax distribution is a loan, an advance against future distributions, or an absolute distribution
- § 6:9 The partnership agreement should clarify how much discretion is left to the manager or general partner in applying the tax distribution provision
- § 6:10 Should a partner who pays taxes at a higher rate receive a larger tax distribution than other partners receive?
- § 6:11 Partner’s income tax rate
- § 6:12 What income is subject to the tax distribution?
- § 6:13 How should partnership losses in prior years affect the tax distribution payment in the current year?
- § 6:14 How are state taxes taken into account in the tax distribution provision?
- § 6:15 How much do you have to worry about changes in the tax law?
- § 6:16 State taxes on partnerships that are creditable against partners’ state income tax
- § 6:17 What happens if the partnership does not have sufficient cash to make a required cash distribution payment?
- § 6:18 Should the tax distribution provision take into account quarterly estimated taxes?
- § 6:19 What happens if the partnership has not fully recouped tax distribution payments when the partnership liquidates or a partner’s interest is liquidated?
- § 6:20 Do tax distribution payments continue after the partnership has begun to liquidate?
- § 6:21 Should the tax distribution provision take into account tax audit adjustments?

III. DRAFTING THE TAX DISTRIBUTION PROVISION

- § 6:22 A simple tax distribution provision
- § 6:23 Tax distributions to service provider where partnership agreement

TABLE OF CONTENTS

- allocates income to service provider without corresponding cash, creating potential tax liability in excess of cash distributions
